Business Understanding: This project aims to help drivers and health care systems to be aware of possible conditions of a person in a car accident. We want to predict whether an accident is fatal or not, based on previous accident data and using Machine Learning algorithms. Based on our final findings, we can help drivers to be more attentive while driving in certains conditions and better inform nearby hospitals about the victim's possible conditions so that he is better served.